Oxford International Corporate Training

Oxford is a world-renowned University city, with origins dating back over eight hundred years. Alongside its countless traditions, it is a thriving, modern city, home to the latest developments in business and research. As an important cultural centre, it is home to two leading Universities, some of the world's most prestigious museums and galleries, and countless buildings of historical significance.

We have more than twenty years' experience organising bespoke training courses for professionals from around the world, working in a wide range of different fields.

Programmes are designed to meet the requirements of each client: we work closely to the specification of your organisation to put together a programme of training which will help develop your employees' strengths in a targeted way.

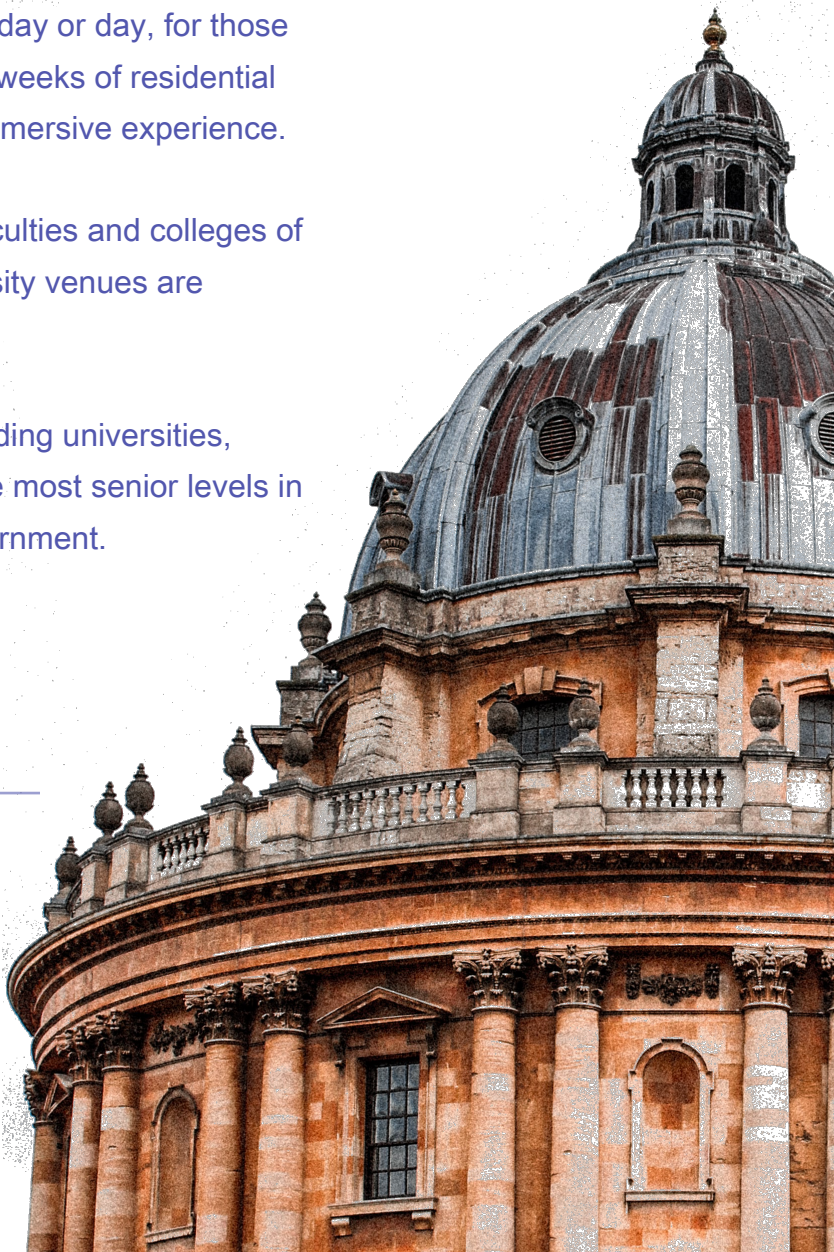

Training is available to suit a range of budgets and time periods: courses can take place over an intensive half-day or day, for those visiting Oxford for a short period, or up to two weeks of residential training for those looking for a longer, more immersive experience.

Programmes are typically taught in various faculties and colleges of the University of Oxford, although non-University venues are available if budget is limited.

Trainers are drawn from many of the UK's leading universities, including Oxford and Cambridge, and from the most senior levels in many spheres of business, industry, and government.

"It is always a pleasure to work with OICT to provide high-quality and well-organised training programmes for our delegates"

- WPI Consult Ltd., Nigeria

Experience and Themes

We have organised hundreds of programmes, with themes spanning across education, business and finance, HR management, public speaking, and more. Below are some of the most popular themes for training programmes delivered in 2019-20, alongside some of our more bespoke topics:

- Local Government
- National and International Relations
- Leaderships: Types, Effectiveness, and Global Variations
- An Introduction to British History and Politics - Cultural Awareness and Communication
- Critical Thinking and Entrepreneurial Skills
- Visual Arts, Media, and Marketing
- Business Planning for Fashion Merchandising
- Cyber Security and Web Development
- Social Care and Health Statistics

Sample Schedule

09.00 – 09.30	Coffee, Welcome Address, and Introduction to the Training Programme
09.30 – 11.00	Lecture One
11.00 – 11.15	Morning Break
11.15 – 12.45	Lecture Two
12.45 – 13.15	Q&A
13.15 – 15.00	Formal Lunch in the University
15.00 – 15.30	Certificate Presentation and Photographs

Many of our seminars are held in the university, providing excellent training venues and facilities and are led by guest speakers from Oxford's two Universities. We can arrange for your staff to dine in one of the colleges of Oxford University.

The increasing globalisation of companies and organisations leads to a greater need for intercultural business communications in English. We have enormous experience in integrating these skills into our training schedules, if required.

Pricing

All programmes are priced individually, based on number of participants, number of hours of training, and a range of optional extras including: accommodation, formal hosted University lunch/dinner, cultural programme, and transport to/from Oxford.

An indication of pricing for recent programmes is given below:

- ◆ Half-day training, featuring three hours of lectures, Q&A, and a formal University lunch: £200 per person, based on 100 participants.
- ◆ Two-day training programme, with one day in Oxford, and one day in Cambridge, featuring six hours of lectures, Q&A, walking tour in both cities, and transport between Oxford and Cambridge: £450 per person, based on 65 participants.
- ◆ Week-long training programme, with three hours of seminars each day from Monday-Friday, and cultural programme involving a two-hour guided visit each afternoon: £720 per person, based on 50 participants.

"We had the honour of learning from a world-renowned expert in the field of education, and then of working with an excellent practitioner. I gained practical skills relevant to my current job. I learned about new methods of working with pupils with disabilities and improved my knowledge of education systems in other countries."

- Dubravka K., Croatia
